

Openings: Andrew Schoultz – “Fall Out” @ Mark Moore Gallery

Posted by sleepboy, January 14, 2013

Just this Saturday night, the Mark Moore Gallery in Culver City hosted the newest solo show from Andrew Schoultz entitled Fall Out. As we have come to expect from the San Francisco-based painter, the showspace was transformed with a series of installations. Taking it a step further, these sculptural elements seem to interact closely with the Mission School stalwart's imagery – like the cannon seemingly spewing gold onto his recent riffs on the American flag. Also present were some familiar motifs including brick walls, kinetic patterns, illuminati symbols, and more (including an intriguing addition of US currency in some of his pieces) referencing the sociopolitical commentary often seen in his work.

Photo credit: theonepointeight for Arrested Motion.

Source: <http://arrestedmotion.com/2013/01/openings-andrew-schoultz-fall-out-mark-moore-gallery/?images=2>